Powering COMMUNITIES WITH PURPOSE

Don Englet
GENERAL MANAGER

Communities come in all shapes and sizes. Some are based on physical proximity, some are rooted in shared interests or hobbies, and some are even found in virtual spaces like social media. Regardless of where or how they are formed, communities bring people together.

Because you are a member of Firelands Electric, you are also part of the cooperative community.

This month, more than 30,000 cooperatives across the U.S. are celebrating

National Co-op Month. It's a time to reflect on what sets cooperatives apart from other types of businesses, but more importantly, it's a time to celebrate the power of cooperative membership.

Electric cooperatives are not-for-profit utilities that are built and governed by the communities they serve. Our mission has always been to provide you with safe, reliable, and affordable power. We care about your quality of life, and because we are locally operated, we're uniquely positioned to meet our members' ever-changing energy needs.

Beyond the business of electricity, our employees and trustees are equally invested in our local community. Why? Because we live here, too. That's why we work hard to support local economic development, youth programs and scholarships, charitable giving initiatives, and other programs that make our community a better place to call home.

This October, as we recognize National Co-op Month and the power of membership, we are celebrating the people in the communities we serve. And as a member of Firelands Electric, you are a part of this cooperative community — and we're glad you're here.

Co-ops are guided by the Seven Cooperative Principles, which embody the values and spirit of the cooperative business model. These seven principles are a framework to help all co-ops navigate challenges and opportunities while remaining true to our purpose:

1. Open and Voluntary Membership: Co-op membership is open to anyone who can use the co-op's services.
2. Democratic Member Control: Members make decisions that shape the cooperative, because co-ops are created by the members, for the members.
3. Members' Economic Participation: Members contribute money to the co-op to make sure it runs smoothly now and into the future.
4. Autonomy and Independence: Co-ops are independent and can operate on their own, which ultimately benefits the members.
5. Education, Training, and Information: Co-ops continuously focus on education to ensure employees have the training and information they need to make the co-op successful. They also value providing energy efficiency and safety education to their members.
6. Cooperation Among Cooperatives: Co-ops share with and learn from other cooperatives. We help each other out in times of need.
7. Concern for Community: All co-ops work for the greater good of the local communities they serve. They give back to their communities to help them thrive and grow.

This month, Firelands Electric is sponsoring a special Co-op Month Madness Contest. Members who submit the entry form located on the next page or online at www.firelandsec.com/contests between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1 will be entered into a drawing for a chance to win a tailgating package worth $100 plus a $150 bill credit. Advocating for reliable, affordable electricity

America's Electric Cooperatives PAC is the political action committee of the nation's electric cooperatives. A bipartisan organization that focuses on issues instead of party affiliations, the PAC supports state and federal government officials who stand behind legislation that supports rural America.

For as little as $2.08 a month, you can join PAC and become part of a network of nearly 35,000 members nationwide (including 6,000 Ohioans) who make their voices heard on the issues that impact their electric bills and the availability of affordable, reliable, safe power for their homes, businesses, and communities.

The PAC gives co-op members a powerful, persuasive voice in Washington. This program enables members to be involved in the political process, to support their local electric cooperative, and to speak out to government officials who will:

- Keep electric service reliable
- Keep electric bills affordable
- Assist efforts to use electricity more efficiently
- Make renewable energy affordable
- Help us rebuild after a storm
- Protect our economy and jobs when making energy laws

There is strength in numbers, and it takes members getting involved, paying attention, and making contributions. Every little bit helps to make the co-op voice stronger for both state and national leaders to hear. Disengaging in the political process could be very detrimental. If electric cooperative members are indifferent, policymakers stop caring about members and rural America.

Thank you to those members who have already made the generous decision to participate in the PAC program. Your commitment to spend personal dollars to support PAC demonstrates your dedication to keeping the voice of electric cooperatives heard.
